

Chemo Headwear Pattern

Here's an easy chemo headwear pattern and tutorial so you can make a that essential accessory that will help her feel more beautiful during recovery.

Today is Mother's Day in most parts of the world, so Happy Mother's Day! To all of you that have experienced the privilege of raising children and the immense love and fear of being responsible for a little one, I salute you and my wish for you is that you are remembered today.

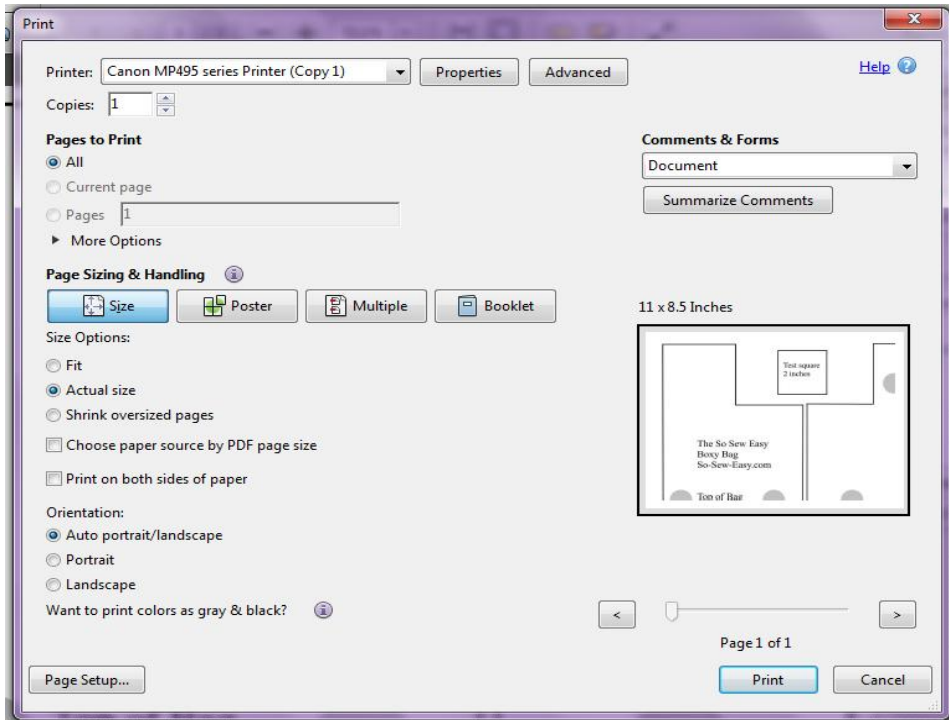

Today is also the beginning of a few styles I will be dedicating to the woman that I admire the most. I should start with my mother and grandmother, but this is not in a particular order. These are the woman that for some reason or another have touched my heart because their resilience, strength, dedication, sacrifice and love for the people around them and themselves have let them take the "road less traveled", the one thing they have in common: they are strong.

Her hair is not out yet, so she is wearing a wig, but wigs are quite warm. So here is a head scarf to make the wait for her hair to re-grow less difficult. This headscarf pattern is also been requested by a few other readers that are going through chemo. We've also seen a lot of readers make these as part of their sewing for charity initiatives. We hope this free pattern and tutorial will help.

Your pattern pieces come at the end of these instructions. For accurate printing, please make sure you are using the latest version of Adobe Reader. You can download the latest version here if you need to.

Select File → Print and the print dialogue box opens. Under Page Sizing and Handling, select ACTUAL SIZE . Check the preview in the right hand side illustration. Select the page numbers you want to print. You can print the whole document, or just the pattern pieces.

On the edge of the top left page is a box you can use to test your printing. This box should measure 2 inches square. If yours is wildly different you will need to check your printer options to make sure the pages are not being resized.

Use the grey guides on the overlap of the sheets to match up the pattern pieces, folding under or cutting off any overlaps, tape together and cut out your pattern pieces.

Also note that you will need to cut two straps at 4 inches by 22 inches, for which no pattern piece is supplied – it's just a rectangle! You can draw the straps on
